

“The Boats I Flew” by Bryan Monkton

FIRST EDITION

Be amongst the first to read this extraordinary tale.

An amazing life of incredible aviation and personal adventures against almost insurmountable odds

Bryan Monkton's life was as full of excitement and intrigue as the finest adventure novel ! His many hair raising tales take us from Mine Laying in “Black Cat” Catalinas low over the ocean at night through many years of storms and emergencies in Commercial Flying Boats. Bryan survived a rocket attack in the Belgian Congo, engine failure in the middle of the Pacific Ocean and flew the last great Flying Boat journey across the Atlantic, using only a compass and sextant for navigation.
